

AVIATION

The Department of Aviation offers a four-year Bachelor of Science degree in Aviation with a concentration in Professional Flight, Aviation Management, and Unmanned Aircraft Systems (UAS). Our Professional Flight program launches graduates into a piloting career by providing excellence in flight training backed by a solid classroom foundation. Many Aviation Management majors follow this path to help provide them with a base for career success in the aviation industry. With the UAS major, our students will find a unique and increasing choice of careers in the industry.
