

What Climate Change Means for Minnesota

A presentation by Dr. Mark Seeley
Professor Emeritus of Climatology and
Meteorology at the University of Minnesota

How has climate change affected Minnesota?

How may it affect the state in the future?

What can be done?

Dr. Mark Seeley, weekly commentator on Minnesota Public Radio's Morning Edition, is the author of Minnesota Weather Almanac and a 2014 recipient of the Siehl Prize in Agriculture.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 16, 2019
6:30pm – 8:30pm

Ostrander Auditorium, Centennial Student Union

Free and Open to the Public.

Free public parking available in the Visitor Pay Lot located on Ellis Avenue in front of the Centennial Student Union. Get Pay Lot passes at the event.

Sponsored by the Environmental Committee and Library Services through the generous financial support of Barnes & Noble at Minnesota State Mankato, LJP Waste Solutions, and the Environmental Committee Fund.

MINNESOTA STATE

Minnesota State University, Mankato

A member of Minnesota State